Field of the Invention This invention relates generally to the transmission of video signals and more particularly to a system for correcting video signals which have been distorted during transmission. 2. Description of the Prior Art The prior art includes a number of systems which automatically or manually correct video signals transmitted by way of analog transmission systems. U.S. Pat. No. 4,011,435 to Anderson et al. discloses such a system which performs automatic correction of video signals. The system automatically detects black and white regions and corrects the gray values of the corresponding picture elements to insure that the desired contour of the black and white regions will not be lost. When the same portion of a video signal is transmitted at a second station, the received signal will also have been distorted. In the prior art, the distorted signal is not compensated. U.S. Pat.
