Efficient gene therapy for prostate cancer cells by lipofectamine-mediated siRNA delivery. Prostate cancer is one of the most common malignancies, with a high prevalence in middle-aged and elderly men in the United States and other Western countries. Unfortunately, there are no effective treatment strategies for human prostate cancer. On the other hand, RNA interference (RNAi) has emerged as a powerful technology to knockdown gene expression specifically and efficiently. In this study, we investigated the use of lipofectamine 2000-mediated siRNA delivery to manipulate the genes involved in apoptosis and cell
