Emco Msi Package Builder Enterprise Serial Number. License key for Emco MSI Package Builder Enterprise v4.4.9.6932 with serial number 93094 and security key. Emco Msi Package Builder Enterprise Serial Number. A: I also feel that the serial number of EMCO MSI Package Builder Enterprise by Emco is a very different number than its real software registration number. EMCO MSI Package Builder Enterprise is a Visual Studio setup project which generates an MSI file. However, the setup of the MSI is done with Visual Studio before packaging and deployment. The installation number of the MSI is the number of the registered copy of the software and its serial number. The serial number of the software installation is different from the serial number of the setup project which is located in the installation folder of the MSI project. For example, I have three registered copy of EMCO MSI Package Builder Enterprise: 2197-1003-040D 7942-9339-CD11 9528-8024-0E52 The installation number of the MSI for each copy is above 4000, and their serial number is: 95288024 794299CD 2197900403D where the last three digits are for the copy number. When installed, the MSI always has the last three digits for the serial number from the installation folder of the MSI as shown in the following image. I do not know whether the serial number of the setup project for the MSI will be written in some other registry information or not. Q: I am unable to assign an integer to a string I am trying to assign a value to a string variable and the following code is giving error string v = "50"; string s = (string) v; It is giving error Invalid conversion from 'int' to'string' A: From the C# reference: Cannot convert type 'int' to'string' because they are not implicitly convertible. You need to use: int i = 50; string s = i.ToString(); Note that when you use the constructor string(string), you get a new string value.
