Organize your ideas during a brainstorming session in a simple, easy-to-use and fast way. Features: A powerful text editor with various user-defined styles. A simple menu system. Cards and sub-cards to organize ideas. Index cards with an excellent text editor with various user-defined styles. An enhanced search option. Index card export as RTF and as a picture. Set cards of various sizes. Card creation using the keyboard. Use a 4x6 index card for brainstorming. Create an unlimited number of card decks. If you would like to improve your Throughline experience even more, here are a few suggestions: 1) Pin cards and sub-cards using the keyboard This is a must-have feature that works with keyboard shortcuts. In order to pin a card, you need to use your keyboard keys Ctrl + Alt + D, then the card index and the pin index number. It is recommended to use another keyboard shortcut to unpin a card, so you will be able to concentrate on a specific issue without having to worry about the rest. 2) Highlight text and copy it with a single keystroke This feature is very useful when you want to quickly copy a large piece of text. It's very easy to do with Throughline since you need to use only the keyboard Ctrl + C. It works on the selected card text and the selected sub-card text, and it is very useful if you want to create a quick text document. In my experience, this feature is one of the most underrated and underused features of Throughline, so it is a must-have for more experienced users. 3) Set the tools to work with the keyboard This is a very useful feature for people with limited hand dexterity or with a disability. You can set the menu system to work with your keyboard or the mouse using the "Tools" menu and the "Application Settings" sub-menu. 4) Send your cards to the cloud using e-mail This is also an underrated feature, but it's very easy to use with Throughline. All you need is to open the e-mail program and select the "Send e-mail" option to send the currently selected card to a specific email address. This is very useful if you want to send cards to yourself or to someone else who does not have Throughline. 5) Create a gallery to collect and archive your cards If you find
