Adobe Photoshop Elements is also a great alternative for graphic designers, web designers, type designers, artists and artists interested in the creation of photorealistic art. It is for these people the resource with all the tools necessary to create stunning images. What's new in Photoshop Elements 20? This list is based on the features of Photoshop Elements 20 and is organized by categories. Enjoy!

Strip off your PNGs Adobe has introduced a new experimental feature that is pretty cool. It allows you to strip off unnecessary bits from your PNG images. It is meant to reduce size and improve efficiency and performance. The new feature actually automatically processes your PNG images and checks if it can be done without affecting the results. If you have an PNG image you know has a lot of unnecessary bits then you can easily set the auto strip feature in the PNG editor. You can even check beforehand if it's safe to strip off some bits without compromising your final image, as Adobe have made an experimental option in this section. It is important to note that the auto-strip feature is not yet available to everyone, as it is still in beta.

Linked actions This new feature means you can combine multiple actions to create one, which will be a convenient tool for macro shots. It is a basic tool for multi-step effects in Photoshop. You can create links between different steps in your action and combine a series of steps to produce images with multiple attributes. This allows you to perform many actions in one go; you can check and see how the images will look to use the best method for future projects. Face-based actions

This new feature is pretty cool and it gives you more options. It allows you to create actions for different faces and view them all at the same time. It will also make it easy for you to switch between faces. You can also apply actions to multiple faces with this new face-based actions tool. Easier image creation The new crop tool is extremely useful and it makes it easier to crop images. It allows you to quickly and accurately crop images, because the tool provides you with scale boxes that help you select the exact crop point and size. The Live Perspective feature is also easier to use with the new crop tool. Instead of always using the eye dropper tool, you can use the right click to select an object to place

Is the future of artificial intelligence technology in the hands of the Chinese? The early adopters of artificial intelligence technology are almost all coming from China, says Tesla and SpaceX co-founder, Elon Musk. Speaking at a conference earlier this week, Musk said that he has a crystal ball and that he "see[s] China developing artificial intelligence in an order of magnitude greater than the United States" [due to the approach of the National Science Foundation]. China makes gains on AI research China is making leaps in artificial intelligence research, with the AI community recently reporting that China will overtake the US this year in artificial intelligence research. The research group, the Institute for Advanced Computer Studies, shared the data and said that for the past 10 years, both the US and China have been leading the world in mathematical artificial intelligence research. The assessment comes despite the US consistently maintaining a level of research and development that is higher than that of China. The New York Times further cited a report from AIQuant, an anonymous research group, which stated that the US leads China in AI for research, while China leads in the "vast majority of applications." The US-China race in AI research has had a potential impact on the arms race between the two countries. The National Security Agency and the Chinese People's Liberation Army have been embroiled in a heated and repetitive power struggle that has had tragic ramifications for the security of the Earth and its people. It's also great news for the people who hope to do business with China. China and the US both have massive mobile-internet ecosystems. To this end, it's worth noting that both China and the US have invested heavily in internet technology to establish their mobile-internet ecosystems. Per a report released in September by Proportal, a global market research company, it was revealed that China's large internet population is contributing to the nation's growth in mobile-internet and application markets. In the report, it was claimed that China has more than 570 million mobile phone users, and in 2016 it spent more than US$100 billion (AU$120 billion) on internet technology. It's not yet clear how much of this money China's will spend on artificial intelligence research. The next decade is where artificial intelligence research pays off The Chinese have an impressive number of years to catch up in artificial intelligence research. In 2017, the US and China were the world's foremost

Recent results of radical nephrectomy for localized pT2 renal cell carcinoma. The results of radical nephrectomy for pT2 renal cell carcinoma (RCC) are poor compared with those for pT3 RCC. We have shown previously that pT2 RCC remains clinically unsuspected until the tumor size is increased to greater than 3 cm. We review the results of radical nephrectomy for localized pT2 RCC. From January 1978 to December 1991, 509 patients with renal cell carcinoma underwent radical nephrectomy at our institution. Thirty-two (6.3%) had pT2 RCC. Median follow-up was 31 months. Seven (21.9%) of the 32 patients had recurrences. Median time to recurrence was 10 months. All patients with recurrence had solitary tumors. The median tumor size was 3 cm. Two patients (5.6%) had recurrence in an ipsilateral kidney. Three patients (9.4%) developed metastases, 1 to bone, 1 to lung, and 1 to both bone and lung. Two patients (5.6%) died of metastatic disease. A higher stage, preoperative anemia, and tumor size were significantly associated with a higher rate of recurrence ($P = 0.012$, $P = 0.004$, and $P = 0.018$, respectively). We conclude that radical nephrectomy for pT2 RCC is feasible and safe. However, a higher stage, preoperative anemia, and larger tumor size portend higher rates of recurrence. Structural comparison of phosphatidylinositol-derived molecules that induce activation and inactivation of phospholipase C in rat cerebral cortex. Structurally related inositol phosphoglycan (IPG) molecules isolated from rat cerebrospinal fluid (CSF) induced the activation and inactivation of phospholipase C in rat cerebral cortex. The inositol-containing glycan was characterized by a hexasaccharide-mannose-inositol linkage. A novel member of the IPG family has been identified in rat CSF, and the complete structure of this molecule was identified to be [structure: see text] where Rf represents hexa-O-acetyl-beta-D-galactopyranosyl. The IPG molecules were isolated in the glycan form by gel filtration on Sepharose 6B prior to
