

A: If you do not want to hardcode your strings and would rather use the value stored in your array, there is a much simpler method. You can simply split the text with the regular expression `/~/`, which results in an array of the matches (but please be aware of the fact that you can get more than one match if there are multiple words separated by `~`). Then you can simply put the string in the same order in which you've split the text into words: `String[] words = infi.getString("Items").split("~");` Note: `infi` is your `JSONObject`. On the brink of successfully making the jump to space, the Daedalus space plane made its first successful high-altitude flight over the California coast on Sunday after a one-day test flight from Mojave Air and Space Port. The test-flight was part of the ongoing engineering and engineering-assessment flight tests of the spaceship under construction by X-Motorcraft, Inc. in Goleta, California. X-Motorcraft will use the liquid-propellant rocket engine burning cryogenic fuel and oxygen to boost the space plane to 60,000 feet, or about 17.7 miles above the Earth's surface. They have plans of the space plane taking off from the West Coast as soon as this year. "This is a significant milestone as we are now equipping the first of a series of flight test articles and continue to refine our proven rocket engine and spacecraft design to continue to progress to the next level of flight," said Frank Culbertson, X-Motorcraft Inc. president. The most important aspect of the test-flight was the rocket engine test, according to Culbertson. "The rocket engine is essentially a thermonuclear reactor. In other words, we melt two very light elements together and generate tremendous energy," he said. The engine tests are a critical part of the flight test program, according to Culbertson. "The first flight article will be the space plane, and this will be catapulted up and then rocketed up," said Culbertson. "The rocket is the most critical part of the project." The space plane is expected to be able to hover at the edge of space for extended periods before returning to Earth. The company has not said how much the space plane would cost to build 1cdb36666d
