What's New in the?

SMS-it is a software application which helps individuals send text messages to other people, through their modem, Internet or the connected mobile phone. The interface presents an interactive picture of a mobile phone with several buttons for quick access to all the options available. In addition to that, it is very intuitive, meaning that any type of person can use it without facing issues. Upon first launching the program, there is a setup wizard which helps people learn everything they need to know about it and establish their connection and configurations. In order to send messages through the Internet, you are required to set up an account with an SMSC (Short Message Service Center), such as MAW Software, Infobiiip and Clickatell. If you connect your phone to the computer (IE through the IR port), you should know it is possible to view and save to the hard drive the contents of your inbox, outbox, sent and failed messages, as well as the phonebook. From the settings panel, this software utility enables you to change its skin, language and method of sending SMSs. You can also order new SMS credits, modify the sender ID and the phone's character set (GSM default alphabet, PC Danish/Norwegian, ISO Cyrillic etc.). There are no Help contents integrated, yet seeing how easy the tool is to use, it becomes apparent that they are not actually needed. CPU and memory usage is minimal, and response time is good. Taking all of this into consideration, SMS-it proves to be a useful piece of software, when it comes to sending text messages from your PC.
